About Town of Parker

Parker is located in the Southwestern portion of Arizona, on the Colorado River. As a part of Arizona's West Coast it is an ideal area for companies to relocate. The business climate in the Town of Parker and La Paz County, of which Parker is the county seat, is geared toward services and agriculture, with manufacturing/industry beginning to emerge. The service and retail business sectors are the major contributors to the financial soundness of this area through recreation and tourism. Agriculture follows closely with hay, cotton, melons and lettuce being the main crops. Water sports, fishing, hunting, golf and off-road activities bring many visitors into the area.
