(PHOENIX – June 4, 2020) The Arizona Association for Economic Development (AAED) has announced its new officers for 2020-2021.

Mignonne Hollis, AZED Pro, executive director of the Arizona Regional Economic Development Foundation in Sierra Vista, is AAED's new president. Lori Collins, deputy economic development director for the city of Mesa is the organization's president-elect. Wendy Bridges, AZED Pro, business development manager for the city of Avondale, is now serving as vice president. Skip Becker, AZED Pro, president and CEO for La Paz Economic Development Corporation, assumes the duties of secretary/treasurer, while Nicole Snyder, AZED Pro, healthcare business development and marketing lead for Orcutt Winslow, is immediate past-president.

The officers were approved at AAED's general membership meeting, which was held virtually.

Hollis said the new slate of officers is an excellent reflection of the organization.
